

MEP Demand Answers: 'When Will Vaccine Deaths Be Counted' (Video)

November 29, 20215 min read

On Wednesday, on the floor of the European Parliament, German MEP Nicolaus Fest (AfD) demanded that instead of jabbing more people, they examine the efficacy, side effects, and deaths in connection with the vaccinations. Furthermore, he wants the pharmaceutical companies to be held liable.

Leaders Lied – Vaccinated People Threat To Vulnerable Groups

“So now we want to vaccinate the entire world. Naturally one wonders why because up until now, the reasons have all been either wrong or misleading. At first, they said they only wanted to vaccinate the vulnerable groups. So, the people over 60. Now they say, no, you have to start at the age of 18.” said

MEP Fest.

Then it was said: with a vaccination rate of 70 percent, we have achieved herd immunity. So now it is said that the vaccination rate should be 100 percent. "The peak of this absurdity is that the unvaccinated are a danger to the vaccinated. We haven't heard that one before," stated Fest.

Leaders also told people to get vaccinated in solidarity with the vulnerable. However, now it has been shown that vaccinated people have an exceptionally high virus load. Therefore, it is safest for vulnerable groups to be around unvaccinated people, the MEP emphasized.

Number of Deaths Underreported

The leader pointed out that now there are more and more vaccine breakthrough infections, i.e., people who become severely ill with the coronavirus, despite being vaccinated twice. And even though the "vaccine" is not working, the establishment is trying to pressure people to get the third jab, explains MEP Fest,

The newest rationale to be heard here now is, since the first two vaccinations have thus totally failed, we should urgently be vaccinated a third time, with a vaccine that will probably fail just like the last two vaccines did the first time around. That's really smart.

According to the MEP, forty-eight deaths in Germany are now directly linked to the vaccine. And these are the very few cases where an autopsy has been performed. Moreover, they did not give an autopsy to people who died after the vaccine in most cases. This means that the number of mRNA shot deaths is likely to be many times higher, explains MEP Fest.

Pharmaceutical Boards Liable

If a company, like Nestlé or Pepsi, or any other company were to put a product on the market, and then 48 people were to die from it within a year, we wouldn't talk about whether we should or should not distribute this product to the world.

The European Parliament should talk about the efficacy of the vaccines and the liability of the vaccine makers boards, explaining MEP Fest. In my opinion, that is what this parliament should focus on, not on vaccinating the world, concluded the MEP.

So now we want to vaccinate the entire world. Naturally one wonders why, because up until now the reasons have all been either wrong or misleading. Allow me to summarize:

At first, they said they only wanted to vaccinate the vulnerable groups. So, the people over 60.

Now they say, no, you have to start at the age of 18.

Then the second reason was, we need 70% [vaccinated] for herd immunity.

Now they say we need 100%. The peak of this absurdity is that the unvaccinated are a danger to the vaccinated. We haven't heard that one before.

The third justification is that we had to be vaccinated out of solidarity.

Out of solidarity with vulnerable groups.

Now, it is said that the vaccinated have a particularly high viral load, which means that for vulnerable groups, it is obviously safest if they are visited by unvaccinated people.

And now, we have more and more vaccine breakthroughs, i.e. people who become severely ill with COVID, despite being vaccinated twice. The newest rationale to be heard here now is, since the first two vaccinations have thus totally failed, we should urgently be vaccinated a third time, with a vaccine that will probably fail just like the last two vaccines did the first time around. That's really smart.

In Germany, we have 48 confirmed cases of deaths that occurred in connection with the vaccination. 48 cases, those are just the cases that were autopsied. Of course, we know that many people who died after a vaccination were not autopsied at all.

That means the unreported number is probably many times higher.

If any company, let's say Nestlé or Pepsi or any other company were to put a product on the market and then 48 people were to die from it within a year, we wouldn't talk about whether we should or should not distribute this product to the world.

We would talk about whether or not we should enforce liability on the management.

That's what I would urgently suggest that this parliament do. We should be discussing the [lack of] efficacy of these vaccines and about liability issues for the management of the vaccine manufacturers.

I think that's what this parliament should concentrate on, not on vaccinating the world. Thank you very much.
